MicroPyramid team is a life saver. Found them after trying multiple development teams for Python Django development and they are best to work with and highly talented. They know how to deploy apps to AWS. They understand customer /user needs and you can count on them to support you when you need them. My quick tip to those considering them is to have a plan so you can take advantage of their skills and resources to execute. They are really startup friendly team, no bureaucracy and don't have to deal with multiple levels.
